Gathering – June 22, 2014

A Message from our Minister

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Francis and Clare,

Last Sunday was Fathers Day and we hope all our fathers had a day filled with many blessing.

Gosh, can you believe summer is almost here, many of us will be on vacation or planning our vacations. We have several events coming up during the coming months so please mark your calendar:

July 20, 2014 - We will come together at the friary for our monthly Gathering.

July 10 – 13, 2014 - A summer seminar for Secular Franciscans will be held at St. Francis University in Loretto, Pennsylvania. The topic is “Spiritual Assistance,” there will be two tracks: one for all Seculars as well as friar or sister spiritual assistants, and another for those directly involved in regional training programs for spiritual assistants. This is a wonderful opportunity to learn more about the purpose and role of the spiritual assistant in the life of the fraternity. If you are interested in participating in this special seminar, please let me know.

September 21, 2014 – Our Fraternity picnic will begin with 12 pm Mass, the festivities will begin at 1pm at the friary. This is such a fun time; please bring your spouse and children for a day of fellow-ship with our fraternity. Our sister, France Staudenmann, OFS will be sending invitations out to our regional fraternities; we always have such a wonderful time spending the day with our brothers and sisters.

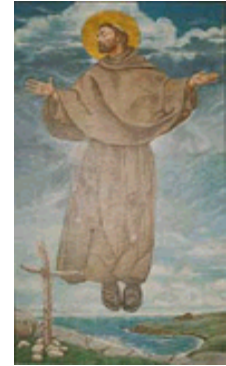

September 26 – 28, 2014 – Our Chapter of Mats will be at Priestfield Retreat Center, Kearneysville, West Virginia. As is the region’s custom, this will replace the annual regional retreat. As more information is received we will send you updates.

Our Deepest Relationship Is with God

I previously wrote about the deeply felt experience we can have with one another. Given that we are created in God’s own image and likeness, it is not an exaggeration to say that these human relationships are God-like. I want to reflect the ultimate basis for those relationships: our relationship with God and God’s relationship with us.

Each one of us is embraced with God’s love. This union is not dependent on whether we worship God or even know God exists. Every person’s life, from the moment of conception, is itself a sharing in God’s existence. Even though a newborn infant can’t be conscious of a mother’s presence, we know the mother is present to her infant very consciously.

We were made to be in a conscious and personal relationship with God. We who are blessed with knowing of God are called to a personal relationship with the Creator. Some relationships are based on fear—even terror. Our relationship with God is the opposite because it is based on love. The key word is personal. For example, an atheist who is interested in comparative religions can know more about the concept of God than 99 percent of ordinary believers, nevertheless, as a professed atheist, he won’t have a personal relationship with God given his intellectual stance. But his disbelief in no way removes God’s love and desire for him.

Our personal relationship with God is based on who we are as people. What is startling is that while we cannot reach out and embrace God with our arms, we can do just that with our hearts. Our physical size is of no importance here because love is based in the human soul. Isn’t it true that a smile from an infant gazing at the face of her mother totally transforms the mother in ways she could not describe?

In our personal relationship with God, all we need to do is act as we do with one another. The elements of that are the essence of our relationship with God. Many confuse a relationship with feeling a kind of closeness. Often it is not felt or sensed in that way. A relationship may include emotions, but they are definitely not the essence of it. Rather, it is with our hearts that we embrace the Lord. And in that relationship, we speak with God as we would with anyone else.

There is no special language or grammar. We speak as we always do. We remind ourselves that God is not “somewhere up there,” but within us so that we don’t have to find God. We must look within. God is the one who shares everything in our lives with us—good and bad. We hold nothing back. God can handle it all with no trouble. In fact, God embraces us no matter where we are in life.

What’s a simple way of coming to the Lord, you might ask? Simply say in your heart, Here I am, Lord. We need to talk. - by Friar Jim Van Vurst, O.F.M

Solitude Is Not Separation

And it is only when we pay no attention to our own excellence that we are at last completely free to serve God in perfection of His own sake alone.

Anniversary Proclamation - Saint Francis Patron of Italy

On June 18, 1939, his Holiness Pope Pius XII, three months after his election, proclaimed St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of Italy. "Since Divine Providence has willed that the Roman Chair of St. Peter was established in Italy, our will cannot apply specifically to promote the spiritual benefits of the Italians. Therefore we declare from this moment and we are in perpetual St. Francis of Assisi and Saint Catherine of Siena Primary Patrons of Italy "(Papal Brief).

The news had great resonance in the ecclesial world, civil and cultural: many bishops publicly expressed its satisfaction; ordinary citizens and authorities, and faithful writers stressed the event, which helped them to feel identified with the virtues, human and spiritual characteristics of the person represented in a very high culture and historical traditions of Italy. The company and the Italian church, which already felt the closeness and the consonance of feelings and spirituality with the Saint of Assisi, rallied to make the daily report significant and greatly rewarding.

The outbreak of war made more intense and confident prayer appeal to the Patron to implore peace. The municipalities of Italy they put a perpetual lamp at the tomb of the Saint and every year, on 4 October, the municipalities in each region alternate in the offer, that burn oil throughout the year in memory of the devotion and love of all Italians for their Patron Saint. Some might think that today it is simplistic to remind the "patron of Italy", having regard to the universal dimension which took St. Francis of Assisi not only territorially but also in religious contexts, and more. In today's globalized world, society, multicultural, multiethnic cannot appear as anachronistic "misappropriation"? Certainly St. Francis is the Saint of the universal Church, Saint of every place and time, is next to every man, especially the needy and poor.

However the Italians posed by Providence in the same territory, mixed in the same culture and language, more in him identifying and feel represented by him. Recognize in him the model of humanity and of exceptional Holiness, toward whom they feel a deep nostalgia. Have special pallier is for us reason for hope because he helps us look at life with optimism, cultivate the awareness that we live in a world, where despite appearances, men, women, animals, plants, in fact the whole creation, are for us brothers and sisters. But it's also responsibility. Francis said: "therefore is great shame for us servants of the Lord, the saints worked with facts and telling us and preaching the things that they do want to receive honor and glory". (FF 155, Reprimand).

Having St. Francis of Assisi as special patron means getting an extension for the humanity of his message and his spirituality.
